Train Hits Compress Building

CRASHING into the unloading and scale dock at Union Compress and Warehouse Company last night was a boxcar pushed off the end of the track by a Missouri Pacific switch engine. The picture above shows the demolished unloading and scale dock. The engine was pushing 19 cars and the end car hit the dock.

DUCKS? Nope, just sweet potatoes, in their natural growth with a few touches added such as eyes, legs and arrangement. The potatoes were grown by W. M. Tyree, Hope, R. 3, who was quick to see the possibilities. "Don't you think they look like an old mother duck and her two ducklings?"

To Decide on Special Meet Next Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said today that he will decide this week or next whether to call a special session of the Legislature to deal with the racial integration crisis here.

The governor apparently wants to chart a definite course of action before issuing a call for a special session and he has indicated that he wanted to see what opinions the 133 legislators have on the subject.

Of 43 lawmakers polled yesterday, a sizable number either would not comment or issued noncommittal statements. Of those who expressed a direct opinion, a majority were opposed to a special session — and almost all legislators said they did not favor closing down the state public schools.

North, South Race Relation Difference

NEW YORK (UP) — Representative Adam C. Powell (Dem., N. Y.) said today he saw the difference between race relations in the North and South as follows:

"In the North, a Negro in the North face and rejected individually. In the South he is rejected on a mass and accepted as an individual."

Governors to Seek a Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Southern governors tried today to forge a common proposal to lay before President Eisenhower on how to deal with the crisis over troop-enforced school integration in Little Rock.

There were at least two — perhaps four — individual plans of action being threshed out in a strategy conference ahead of the White House session.

North Carolina's Gov. Luther Hodges chairman of the state executives group, said he expected the talk with Eisenhower to be limited to the matter of getting federal troops out of Little Rock. That was as far as Hodges would go toward disclosing his own proposals.

"I know what I've got to say but I shall not make it public until after we meet the President," Hodges said.

"I am sure everybody else in the group has some idea of his own. It is going to take quite a bit of work."

Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee also was ready.

If nobody comes up with a better one "I definitely intend to offer a plan of action," Clement said.

The other two members of the governors' committee were Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, who succeeded Hodges as chairman of the Southern Governors' Conference, and Theodore McKelvin of Maryland, the one Republican in the quartet.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS) — Japan was elected to the U. N. Security Council today over strong Soviet opposition and Russia bitterly protested the result as an "open violation of the U. N. charter."

The U. N. Assembly, on the first ballot, elected Japan to the 1958-59 council over Communist Czechoslovakia.

The Soviet delegation issued a statement charging that the election was "open discrimination" against the countries of Eastern Europe.

French Again Without a Government

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS (AP) — A lame duck Cabinet governed France again today after the National Assembly defeated Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury on his proposal to give partial self-rule to Algeria.

Bourges-Maunoury, in office only since June 13, immediately handed his resignation to President Rene Coty.

Coty refused to accept it "at this time and in the present circumstances," Bourges-Maunoury agreed to stay only until his successor can be found.

The no-confidence vote of 273-253 was short of the absolute majority of the total 596 deputies which would have forced Bourges-Maunoury to resign. This left Coty free to ask the Premier to stay in office.

The Assembly's rejection of even partial self-rule for Algeria promised France a rough time in the current U. N. Assembly, where Arab demands for Algerian independence are mounting. Bourges-Maunoury had hoped to present his plan to the Assembly as evidence that France was trying to meet the demands of the Arab nationalists, at least in part.

Some deputies suggested that Jacques Soustelle, a leader in the fight against the Algerian self-rule bill, be asked to form a new government. But Soustelle, a right-wing follower of Gen. Charles de Gaulle and former governor general of Algeria, appeared to have no chance of winning the support of moderates and moderate leftists necessary for any premier to muster a majority.

Johnson Has Plan to Beat Integration

LITTLE ROCK (INS) — A spokesman for Arkansas segregationists believes Gov. Orval Faubus should convene a special session of the state legislature to adopt a "local option" plan to meet the school integration crisis.

Former State Sen. Jim Johnson, on a Little Rock telecast last night, said for the Arkansas Association of Citizens Committee, bitterly assailed President Eisenhower and Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., for what he termed "The illegal military invasion and the seizure of one of our state schools."

He charged both the president and Brownell with "dishonesty" because of "omission of facts and omission of law" in citing their reasons for ordering federal troops into the state.

In impassioned words, Johnson claimed that segregationists "oppose race mixing" upon legal grounds.

Killer Gives Up Weekly After 3 Are Left Dead

By DON L. REEDER

NORTH VERNON, Ind. (AP) — A killer calmly surrendered in a thick fog today in a moment that ended a nightmare of gun battles that killed his companion and two state troopers in two states.

The surviving gunman, Victor Wayne Whitley, 26, Granger, Tex., was unhurt when a mile-long line of policemen flushed him out of thick woods where he had fled from the car of a deputy sheriff he had held hostage.

State police said Whitley came over a rise with his hands over his head after police had chased him through woods and beanfields. They had waited for daybreak and the fog to clear.

Police had not identified Whitley's partner who was killed in a gun battle last night with police near North Vernon when they were stopped at a blockade.

NORTH VERNON, Ind. (AP) — Two crazed gunmen shot and killed two state troopers and wounded three other policemen yesterday in a series of gun battles from Michigan to the Ohio River.

One of the gunmen was shot and killed near here late last night, but the other escaped into a forest about three miles south of here and was still at large.

State, county and city police surrounded the area and blocked off all escapes.

The dead troopers were identified as Dugald A. Pellot, 23, of Michigan, and William Kellems, 27, of Indiana.

Michigan Trooper Douglas A. Vogel 27, was reported in serious condition at Ann Arbor, Mich., with pistol wounds in his back, face and arms. Lester Kenans, 38, a North Vernon policeman, and Indiana State Trooper Robert Pond, 28, were wounded in a gun battle with the gunmen near North Vernon. Clyde Perkins, a Jennings County, Ind., deputy sheriff, was held hostage for a short time.

The shooting spree started about five miles south of Clinton, Mich., yesterday afternoon.

Trooper Vogel stopped two cars — one a station wagon — to check an apparent traffic violation. Vogel was shot by one of the motorists but radioed his post for help.

Responding troopers intercepted the two vehicles about two miles west of Clinton and Pellot was gunned down.

At Jackson, Mich., about 40 miles northwest of Clinton, the two men bound and gagged Mrs. Gordon LeCromier, 35. They escaped in her car.

The men eluded Michigan roadblocks and were next seen in Milford, Ind., where a woman reported to police that she saw two men changing license plates on a red and white Buick — the description of the Michigan car.

The next report came from Scottsburg, Ind., when Trooper Kellems radioed that he was pursuing a car matching the description. He said he believed there were two men and a woman in the car. Kellems stopped the car in Scottsburg. As he approached it, he was shot down, but he emptied his revolver into the fleeing auto.

About 15 or 20 minutes later the car was sighted at a roadblock about two miles south of North Vernon. A gun battle followed in which one of the gunmen and two policemen were shot.

State police said the wounded gunman and his companion then escaped in a car owned by Perkins with the deputy as hostage.

They drove to a wooded area about two miles south of the scene where the wounded gunman apparently died and was shoved out of the car. The remaining killer then released Perkins and fled into the wooded area.

State policemen said there had been no reports of a woman with the two men after Trooper Kellems' first radio message.

The two men had not been definitely identified early today. The dead man had several identification cards on his body and police said they were not sure who he was.

However, West Virginia state police said they believed an ex-convict from Kenova, W. Va., is one of the men. They identified the man as James Walker Taylor, and described him last year as armed and dangerous when he was the object of a police search for parole violation. Michigan police said a station wagon abandoned at Springfield bore Virginia license plates.

State Guard Replaces Army at Central High

Says Arkansas Has to Amend Constitution

EL DORADO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said today that the Arkansas constitution would have to be amended by the people before valid anti-integration legislation could be passed.

In a prepared speech to a civic club here, Bennett suggested that laws could be passed to withhold state aid from schools which are racially integrated and to discourage solicitation of lawsuits.

However, he stressed the point that the state constitution first would have to be amended.

Bennett, former prosecuting attorney and possible gubernatorial candidate next year, made no direct reference to Gov. Orval Faubus or other principals in the racial dispute in Little Rock. However, he blamed the present situation on "lawsuits brought into the state."

Faubus has discussed the possibility of a special session of the Legislature and some legislators have suggested that the public schools be closed until financial aid be withheld from integrated schools.

U. S. to Take Integration Before UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Hoping to counteract foreign criticism of the Little Rock school segregation trouble, the United States planned to bring the ticklish integration issue before the U. N. Assembly today.

George S. Mesny, president of the AFL-CIO and a U. S. delegate to the Assembly session, as to discuss America's recent progress and trouble in racial relations before the Assembly's 2-nation Social Committee.

The committee is discussing world social conditions.

A U. S. spokesman indicated the integration problem was being put before the U. N. formally at this time to put it into proper perspective before the world. He said the Americans want to show that progress is being made and that some tension was natural when an issue so sensitive as school desegregation was first dealt with.

High officials in Washington have been deeply concerned over unfavorable reaction abroad to violence in connection with desegregation of Little Rock's Central High School and of some other Southern schools.

In the U. N., however, the recent U. S. racial troubles have brought only occasional sniping at the United States by a few delegates from Soviet satellites, and no comment from the Russians themselves.

Judge Davies Is Relieved at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — U. S. Dist. Judge Ronald E. Davies, relieved yesterday of a temporary assignment to the bench of the Eastern District of Arkansas, will remain jurisdiction in the Little Rock integration case, he said in a statement last night.

The 5 feet, one inch judge from Fargo, N. D., has been accused by Gov. Orval Faubus of contributing to the integration crisis here by "hasty" decisions in the case.

District Judge Roy W. Harper of St. Louis arrived here last night to replace Judge Davies. Davies was reported leaving today for Fargo.

"I will return to Little Rock as circumstances may arise," Judge Davies said, indicating he may yet have any cases coming out of the integration row while Judge Harper will clear up a backlog of some 125 cases on the Eastern District docket.

Chief Judge Archibald J. Gardner of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, who announced Harper's appointment yesterday, said the changes had no significance.

Gardner said Davies asked to be relieved because of the press of other duties. He pointed out that Davies has a docket of his own in North Dakota and it was not policy to keep a judge away from his own district too long.

Davies, named as a temporary replacement for retired Judge Thomas C. Trimble, has three times upheld the Little Rock school board's gradual plan of integration, despite opposition from Gov. Faubus and segregationist groups. On Sept. 20, Davies enjoined Faubus from further interference with the plan after the governor had blocked integration for nearly three weeks with National Guard troops.

Faubus ordered the Guard removed from Central High and last Monday bloody rioting broke out at the school, causing President Eisenhower to order federal troops into the city to maintain order.

Judge Harper, whose appointment for six months was effective Sept. 23, said he had no information as to the reason for his assignment, except that, "I assume that he (Judge Davies) has to get back to North Dakota to hold his own court."

Harper, 52, has been a federal judge since Aug. 7, 1947. He is regularly assigned to the Eastern District of Missouri.

The eastern district of Arkansas has been without a regular judge since Trimble's retirement June 1. Judge John E. Miller, who issued the Little Rock integration order which Davies has thrice upheld, sat on the Eastern District bench for a brief period and disposed of a few cases.

Faubus said last night that removal of Judge Davies "might indicate the administration is feeling the weight of public opinion" in the integration matter. Faubus has repeatedly referred to Davies as an "imported judge" although the governor's critics just as quickly point out that Davies' decisions have merely upheld the ruling of Judge Miller, a lifelong Arkansan.

Epitaph for Little Unknown Boy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Heavenly father, bless this unknown boy."

That will be the epitaph on the gravestone of a slain child whose thin, unclothed body was found in a paper box on a vacant lot in the city's Fox Chase section last Feb. 25.

Behind the epitaph lies a poignant mystery. Despite all they could do, police were unable to learn the identity of the boy, who was 5 or 6. Medical examiners said he had been slain.

Chief Detective Inspector John J. Kelly and Capt. David H. Roberts, head of the homicide squad, said yesterday the inscription was chosen from among many suggestions sent to detective headquarters by Philadelphians. Last summer the entire detective force and not a few outsiders, contributed money to bury the child properly.

Beck Sees Big Future Ahead in Business

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Boney, irrepressible Dave Beck, retiring Teamsters Union president sees a rich and rosy future ahead for him in private business.

But Beck isn't quite ready to abandon the palatial home his union has provided him rent and tax free at Saddle Creek.

For Beck, these are happy and busy days. He is presiding at the first and undoubtedly the last Teamsters convention he will ever attend as the glacial union president.

Beck is leaving the union's top post after his involvement in scandals developed before the Senate Rackets Committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), a group Beck likens to an inquisition.

"I took the Fifth Amendment before the McClellan committee and I'd do it again today," Beck said in one of the many long, rambling meetings he has been holding with reporters between Teamsters convention sessions. Relaxed and informal, Beck is at his ease.

The 64-year-old Beck, once a laundry driver, before he became head of the nation's largest labor union, has been busy day and night before and during the convention. One of the things that's helped keep him busy in answering telegrams from McClellan.

He complains he still hasn't had time for a plunge in the nearby Atlantic Ocean.

Big Test for Leadership of Teamsters

By JIM THOMASSON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The first major test of strength in the heated battle for the presidency of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters was in prospect at the sprawling, unbanked Miami Beach Auditorium today.

Two of the leading contenders for the post being vacated by Dave Beck — Vice President James R. Hoffa of Detroit and Thomas J. Haggerty, Chicago milk truck drivers official — probably will collide head on today as the convention Credentials Committee makes its final report on contested delegates.

In Washington, Chief Justice Warren may act on an effort by a group of Teamsters Union members to block the election of national union officers. Warren has under advisement an appeal by 12 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters members in an injunction delaying the union election.

A coalition move to unite the strength of three candidates in an effort to back Hoffa, the heir apparent of Beck, showed new signs of significant gains.

Rep. John S. Shelley (D-Calif.) withdrew as a candidate for president with an appeal to the other candidates to unite in a stop-Hoffa rally of strength.

But Vice President William A. Leo of Chicago ignored overtures of the coalition block and Vice President Thomas L. Hickey of New York snubbed it although he did engage in some conversation about such a move.

Hoffa opponents are banking heavily on the threat that the Teamsters will be expelled from the AFL-CIO if Hoffa is named to succeed Beck.

Continue Forced Integration for Army Regulars

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Regular Army troops were withdrawn from Central High School today and federalized. Arkansas National Guardsmen supervised the entrance of nine Negro students to the integrated school.

For the first time, the six Negro girls and three boys entered the school without a military escort. For the first time, too, they split up, four going in to classes by a separate, more convenient entrance while the others took the usual path through the main entrance.

There was a brief flurry of excitement as some noise arose among about 75 white students at the main entrance. A dole of eight Guardsmen, carrying rifles, dashed up but the Negroes were already inside and there was no disturbance.

The white students clapped their hands as the Guardsmen returned to their posts on the sidewalk in front of the school.

The Guardsmen took over the patrol posts previously held by crack regulars from the 101st Airborne Division, sent in by President Eisenhower a week ago today to enforce integration.

They surrounded the school with two-man patrols, a pattern set up yesterday by the regulars.

About 200 Guardsmen from the 153rd Infantry were on duty. They carried rifles without bayonets.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Arkansas National Guardsmen took over from federal paratroopers at Central High School today as tension continued to ease there in the second week of troop-enforced integration.

Only about 20 paratroopers were on patrol duty when the 153rd Infantry took over shortly after 7 a.m. Col. William Drake, public relations officer for the Arkansas Military District, said patrolling at the big built brick high school would now be done entirely by the National Guardsmen.

Since they took over at the school last Wednesday, the troops of the 101st Airborne Division gradually have relaxed the cordon around the school. The guard around the school had been reduced yesterday from the solid line of steel helmeted, bayonet-ready troops of last Wednesday to a few two-man patrols.

For the first time yesterday, the troops sheathed their bayonets and the guard inside the school was cut from 24 to 11. Street barricades were taken down and traffic began moving normally by the school. The nine Negro students had no military guard as they left for home yesterday afternoon; but they still rode in an Army station wagon.

As the scene at the school continued to relax today, a group of citizens worked quietly in an effort to organize a show of opposition to the way Gov. Orval Faubus has handled the racial integration problem at the school.

Only about 30 National Guardsmen were on patrol duty. This morning when students began arriving, the barricades were down and it was obvious the military sought a show of a return to normal.

Big Bust on Way Out in Popularity

By EDDY GILMORE LONDON (AP)—Britain's first bosom ballot indicated today that the out-sized, over-exposed bust is losing its popularity.

The poll was conducted by the mass circulation tabloid, Daily Mirror which, week in and week out, devotes almost as much attention to the female chest as does a good uplift bra.

The newspaper had second thoughts about the bosom cult when American actress Jayne Mansfield (41-35-34) flew into London last week to advertise her latest film.

Devoting its entire front page to Miss Mansfield's ample dimensions, the paper that claims 13 million daily readers asked: "Has the bust had it? Can you still win friends and influence people with a tape measure? Has inflation gone too far?"

The anatomical editorial added quickly: "We don't advocate a bustless world. We're just wondering."

The paper urged its readers to send in their opinions. Today it said it was flooded with replies and published a few of them.

Some of the comments: "For heavens sake, we've had enough of these busty Berthas and this is not sour grapes. I'm 38-24-30."

"Unnatural, over-rated, nauseating."

Develops Tiny Detector of Brain Tumors

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP) — Purdue University announced today that one of its graduate students has developed a tiny "needlepoint" atomic radiation detector for treating brain tumors.

James Mayer, graduate student in physics, developed the detector, described as "so small that it nestles in the tip of a hypodermic needle."

Mayer is working under the direction of Dr. B. H. Gossick at Arizona State Teachers College, where Mayer is now a physics professor. But the Duncan Electric Mfg. Co., Lafayette, sponsored some of the experimental work.

The device is known as an alpha particle spectrometer. It is in use now at Massachusetts General Hospital and at Brookhaven National Laboratory.

Scientists explained the method using the detector as follows: "Doctors inject a solution containing boron into the patient's blood. They expose the patient's head to a bombardment of radiation from a nuclear reactor.

The boron in the tumor explodes, giving off radiation in the form of alpha particles. The alpha particles blast through the tumor, killing or crippling diseased cells.

The new detector can tell doctors to the first time exactly where the Alpha particles come from and where they go. Several can be used at once to plot locations of the particles, even those

Med Center Reports Dystroph Discovery

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A discovery that could be a major step in finding a cure for crippling muscular dystrophy has been announced by scientists at the University of Arkansas Medical Center here.

A relationship in monkeys between vitamin E and the usually fatal disease has been proved, researchers said Saturday.

Drs. Paul L. Day and James S. Dinning said experimental animals developed "every sign of muscular dystrophy" after 6 to 13 months on a diet from which vitamin E was eliminated.

All recovered when the vitamin was returned to the diet, they said. It is possible that through some dietary defect victims of the disease are unable to convert the raw vitamin into its usable active form, Day said.

The next step is to determine composition of the active form of vitamin E, Day said. Most muscular dystrophy victims are children who will not live to adulthood.

Lawmakers to Talk at Helena Show

HELENA (AP) — Sen. John McClellan and Rep. E. C. Gathings of West Memphis will be special guests at the first Eastern Arkansas Industrial Exposition Thursday.

Miss Queen Industry will be crowned at the climax of the one-day exposition. Parades, tours of industrial plants and a grand ball are scheduled.

NEW YORK — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, on returning from a tour of Soviet Russia: "The only piece of world news in Communist newspapers was the integration incident in Little Rock, Arkansas. The Russian newspapers usually give about two and a half columns to world news. These were taken up with exactly what happened in Little Rock."

VATICAN CITY—Pope Pius XII, in saying woman must subordinate herself to man in marriage, but should not shun recent female gains in cultural, professional and political fields: "On the contrary, she must assume her responsibilities in all domains and face the demands of them with an effective missionary aim."

TCU Working on Passing for Porkers

By The Associated Press

Texas Christian prepared for the Southwest Conference opener Saturday with one of the best passing drives of the year.

Coach Abe Martin had quarterback Dick Finney, Jack Stange and Hunter Enis doing the pitching. The Frogs failed to complete a pass in the victory over Ohio State last week.

Al Lasater was moved to first string right halfback to replace his brother, Marvin, who has a sore leg muscle.

TCU plays Arkansas at Little Rock Saturday.

Arkansas worked out without a game Monday. The Razorbacks came through the victory over Tulsa last week without injury.

Coach Jack Mitchell drilled the backs on timing and pass defense while the line worked on offensive and defensive plays.

Frogs worked out in full uniform, preparing for the South Carolina game this week. Sophomores Mike Dowdle, fullback, and guard James Shillingburg were promoted to the first team.

Third string quarterback Joe Clements hurt his knee Monday, but trainer Frank Medina said the Longhorns came through the victory over Tulane in good shape.

The top 22 Baylor players ran a long dummy scrimmage while the reserves hammered the freshman squad. Boyd said the first two units made too many mechanical mistakes in last Saturday's triumph over Houston.

Yankees Rule 8-5 Favorite to Take Series

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Yankees, playing in their 23rd October classic, ruled an 8-5 favorite today to defeat the Milwaukee Braves, winners of their first National League championship, in tomorrow's opener of the 54th World Series.

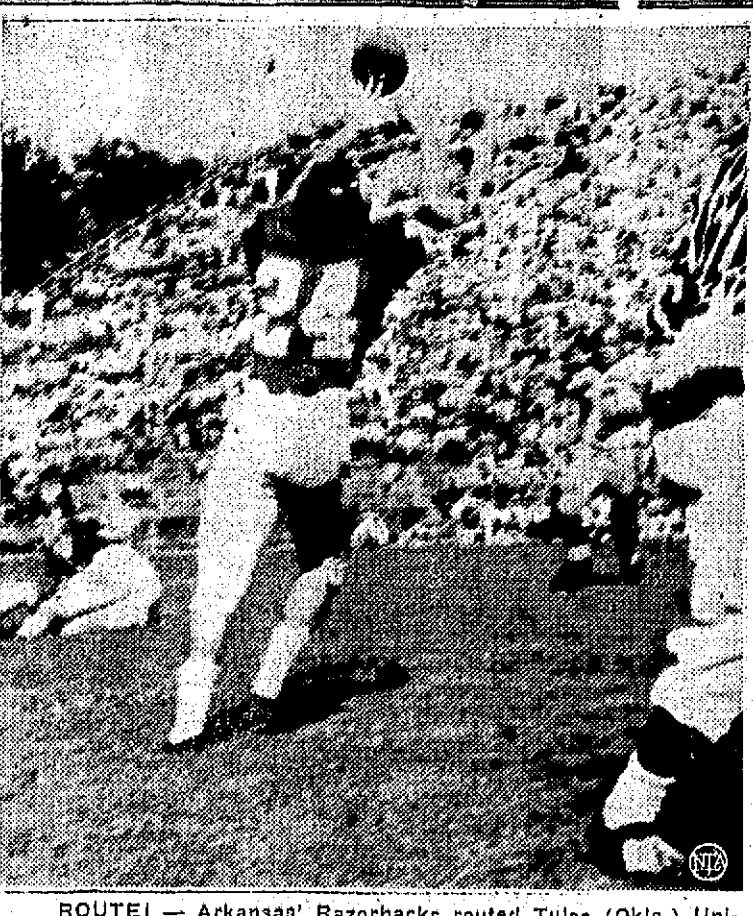

A capacity crowd of some 67,000 spectators was expected to jam Yankee Stadium to witness a battle of left-handers.

Whitely Ford, winner of four series in six decisions, has been nominated by Manager Casey Stengel to pitch his third straight opener. He will be opposed by Warren Spahn, the only Milwaukee pitcher with series experience. Spahn divided a pair of decisions in 1948, when the Braves represented Boston, lost to Cleveland in six games.

Each team is prepared to use essentially the same lineup that carried them to the pennant. Stengel raised some doubt about Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron, but he indicated both would be ready tomorrow.

Skowron, who had been bothered by a sprained back during the past few weeks, worked out yesterday and reported he was swinging freely. His back, he said, felt fine except when he tried to run hard.

Mantle, plagued by shin splints for more than a month, was an almost certain starter, although he admitted his left leg still bothered him when he tried to exert extra pressure.

GETTING AN EARLY START - Kristin Gidlund, 14, seems to be quite pleased with the unusual position he enjoys at the Blackberg Secondary School in Stockholm, Sweden. He's the only boy in his class. Kristin, who plans to become a diplomat when he grows up, will probably have an opportunity to utilize his "diplomatic" talents when dealing with 30 girl classmates.

Largest Shipbuilding Order Is Placed

NEW YORK (AP) - A 50-year-old American shipbuilding man who shuns publicity has placed what is reported to be the largest single private shipbuilding order in maritime history.

With little more than a glorified office memorandum, Daniel K. Ludwig, head of National Bulk Carriers, Inc., New York, ordered five oil tankers of 104,500 deadweight tons each.

Cost of the vessels was not announced. It was estimated, however, at about 25 million dollars a vessel. The first is to be completed late next year.

The world's largest tanker now is the 35,500-ton Universe Leader, another Ludwig ship.

Stavros Niarchos and Aristotile S. Onassis, Greek tanker magnates, have ordered ships of 100,500 tons but these will not be completed until later, it was understood.

Ludwig's order, confirmed yesterday, gives him an apparent edge in his rivalry with the flamboyant Greeks.

AILING SOONER RETURN

NORMAN, Okla., (UP) - All but one of the 13 University of Oklahoma football players laid up with flu returned to the practice field today for a late afternoon drill. The squad didn't come out until 5:15 p.m., held a 10-minute squad meeting, then returned to the field for about an hour of practice.

KINS SIGN SHULA

WASHINGTON (UP) - The Washington Redskins have signed Don Shula, a defensive halfback who was released recently by the Baltimore Colts. Shula, a veteran of the National Football League, served as Baltimore's team captain for three years.

Basilio, Ray Robinson Fight at Saenger

Henry Seamans, Manager of the Saenger Theatre today announced that he had made special arrangements for the exclusive showing of the entire picture of the Sugar Ray Robinson - Carmen Basilio championship fight for three days only starting Tuesday, Oct. 8.

There is widespread reason for high interest in this fight. First, it was one of the bloodiest and most brutal scraps put on in any ring in the past two or three years. Second, the referee gave the fight to Robinson, 9 rounds to 6 - one judge awarded it to Basilio, with 9-5 and 1 even - the second judge 8-6 favor of Basilio. Seeing the fight pictures on the giant screen of your local theatre will give interested fight fans an opportunity to judge for themselves.

Another interesting angle to this fight was the fact that it was not shown on home TV - but shown to about 100,000 fans who paid from $3 to $5 a seat to see it on closed circuit telecasts. Robinson received nearly $500,000 for his share of the purse, Basilio around $200,000 for the fight staged in the Polo Grounds.

In assessing the fight pictures locally, despite many larger cities demanding the few prints available, Mr. Seamans says that there would be no advance in regular Saenger prices of admission - and the full 15 round fight will be presented on the same program with a regular big main studio feature hit. This is a real bargain and entertainment scoop for Hope starting Oct. 8 thru the 11.

Many Areas Get More Rainfall

By The Associated Press

Southeast sections of the country got more rain today, the fourth day of wet weather for the area. Drenching rains hit many places.

The wet and cool weather in the Southeast was in contrast to mostly pleasant weather in other parts of the country. However, some showers sprinkled areas in the Pacific Northwest.

The wet belt in the Southeast stretched from Virginia through Alabama, Georgia and Florida. Heaviest downpours during the night were across parts of northern Florida and Georgia, with more than 3 inches in Brunswick, Ga., and about 2 inches in Jacksonville, Fla.

Crescendo Lived Up to Its Name

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Music's magic has rarely been demonstrated more thoroughly than on the latest big television special, "Crescendo."

The 90-minute CBS collocation last night, tumbled in advance as a cavalcade of American melody, turned out a giant jukebox of the loose, a crazy quilt sampler of many things, not very well assembled and handicapped by a weird continuity.

That the show succeeded in entertaining those who stuck with it through various moments of awkward dialogue can be credited entirely to the vocal and instrumental brilliance of the 14 stellar talents involved.

Any state containing a complete including Eddie Arnold, Carol Channing, Louis Armstrong, Benny Goodman, Peggy Lee, Diana Carroll and half the cast of "My Fair Lady" has plenty to provide a downbeat success to the discourse.

It was the conceit of Peter Ustinov and Leslie Stevens, authors of the script, to portray the master of ceremonies, British star Rex Harrison, as an enraged visitor to these shores, transported through various maments and varieties of popular music, from frontier ballads to Latin tempos and the birth of the blues.

Visually the show had to novel appeal of simplicity.

"Crescendo" might have indeed lived up to its name had someone settled for equal simplicity in the story line. Instead it was a succession of isolated samples of big name, disconnected virtuosity.

Graham Advised Not to Visit Little Rock

NEW YORK (AP) — A telegram from Little Rock church leaders advising Billy Graham not to visit the Arkansas capital until "the heated tension is past" was released by the evangelist last night.

The telegram was sent to Graham after he said earlier that he would be willing to visit Little Rock if church leaders believed his appearance would help ease racial tension.

"We appreciate your concern for our Little Rock people in this crisis," the telegram to Graham said. "After careful consideration it is our conviction that you can be of more help to us when the heated tension is past."

Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark), president of the Southern Baptist Convention, was among the 10 church leaders who sent the telegram, which added:

"We eagerly anticipate your visit for an evangelistic campaign at a later date in accordance with previous plans. Your coming will help heal wounds and restore Christian unity to our community."

Small Plane Falls, Dodges Drag Racers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A small plane crashed at a private airport just north of here yesterday as the pilot, frantically tried to dodge drag strip car racers in his path, the state highway patrol reported.

"He said the Piper Tri-Pacer, piloted by Gene Shroyer, 29, Ottawa, Ohio, ground looped about 10 feet from two hot-rodders and flopped upside down. Shroyer and his two passengers Jim Davis, 31, Lima, and Cleter Klausner, 51, Ottawa escaped serious injury.

The accident happened at Northway Airport which hot-rodders use as a drag strip raceway.

"They should close the field or stop the drag racing," said a police sergeant.

A move by county commissioners to end auto racing at the airport is pending in the courts.

Nation's Traffic Deaths Increase

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's traffic deaths increased in August for the first time since last November, the National Safety Council said today.

The traffic death toll last month of 3,790 not only was 5 per cent higher than the toll of 3,610 in August last year but was the highest August toll since 1941 and the second highest for that month in the council's history. The total in August 1941 was 3,954.

The council said the increase was attributed in part to the fact there were five Saturdays in August this year, including one during the Labor Day weekend.

Despite the increased toll in August, the council said highway deaths for the first eight months this year were 2 per cent lower compared with the corresponding period last year, 24,730 against 25,200.

The council reported that travel in the first six months was up 3 per cent, producing 5.5 deaths for every 100 million miles of travel, lowest ratio in the nation's history for a comparable period.

Memphis Man Dies in Auto Wreck

GOODWIN (AP) — Byron L. Parker, 40, Memphis, was killed in an automobile accident near here yesterday.

His wife and their grandson, Dana Parker, 7, were admitted to a Memphis hospital. The boy's condition was listed as critical.

Neighbors of the Parkers said the collision occurred as the Parkers were returning to Memphis after visiting relatives at Fort Smith, Ark.

THOUGHT FOR NEWSPAPER WEEK

CHAPTER XXXI

Sarah felt as though she had been beaten with sticks. She had dreaded lying awake; she fell into a profound sleep the moment her head was on the pillow. At 10 minutes of three she woke up. Everything was quiet. There was no sound anywhere except, far away, the mournful bleat of the foghorn at Highland Light. It had turned colder. She reached for the blanket at the foot of the bed — and left it where it was. Two people were talking somewhere, their voices were a low continuous murmur. It was, it must be, Tom and Lisa Hall.

Sarah got out of bed. She had only the clothes in which she had come. She threw her polo coat over her slip and opened her door carefully. The hall was as black as pitch. Tom and Lisa were in the studio; the door was closed but there was a line of light under it. Sarah moved over the floor in her bare feet, feeling her way.

Inside the studio Lisa was talking softly, "—and I was terrified. Tom, absolutely terrified. Your face, the way you sat there staring at me..."

Tom said, "I didn't know what you were going to say, I hadn't the slightest idea..."

"What else could I say, darling? That Inspector's terribly keen... and Sarah Casement can see through a pane of glass as well as the next person... I'll tell you something else about her, Tom. She's jealous of me — yes, she is, you're a man and you wouldn't notice, but she is... No, we're not out of the woods yet, we'll have to be awfully careful. Think of what would happen... Everything ruined everything..."

"Lisa, stop it. Don't worry about Sarah, you don't need to. If the worst comes to the worst I can handle her..."

Lisa said, "Maybe you're right. Tom, I hope so... It's so hard to have to pretend all the time. I think I'll go to bed. I think I can sleep now." There was movement inside the studio; Sarah retreated through blackness to her door, closed it soundlessly.

The night died slowly. Dawn came, and then the sun. Snatches of broken sleep after that; she got up at almost nine.

They breakfasted leisurely, sat around smoking cigarettes and drinking more coffee. There was plenty of time. Tom had called the airport. The 1:30 flight from Provincetown connected with a New York plane at Boston. Sarah washed the dishes and tidied up the kitchen while Lisa got ready to go. Tom was doing something to the car. They joined him outside.

"No, I won't go in to the airport with you people, Carlota will think I've deserted her completely. It's a gorgeous morning — I spurn your car, Tom, I'm going to walk down over the moors."

Sarah had no idea afterwards of where she went or how long she walked, except that it was fast and far. She didn't notice the sun dimming, the light darkening. The fog came on her without warning.

At one moment she was walking in sunlight, then streams of mist were floating about her and in a few seconds she was in the middle of blanketing grayness. The landscape was wiped out, didn't exist.

With all her force she resisted temptation to run blindly, to shout for help. What she had to do was try and find out where she was and be quiet about it.

She didn't see it until it was less than two feet from her. The fog was as thick as ever and the light was going. She stared stupidly at the wall of gray unpainted planks covered here and there with smears of dried paint. It was the old barn up on the hill behind Carlotta and Steven's.

Her stockings were ribbons, briars tore at her coat, then she was on the driveway and stumbling across the lawn. Three lighted windows, in a row — she stepped up on the porch, swayed, and caught at a pillar.

From where she stood she had an oblique view of the room through veiling grayness. Carlotta and Steven had had an accident. His shoulder was bandaged, his arm was in a sling. It wasn't Steven who stilled Sarah's breathing to a thread. It was Tom Gillespie. He was standing in the middle of the floor talking. The collar of his coat was turned up and he was manhandling his hat with his hands.

None of them was facing the windows, one of which was raised a few inches. Tom was talking about her; "— gone more than three hours."

Steven said hastily, "I don't think we have to be afraid of that, Gillespie. Bob wouldn't hurt her if she did blunder into him. It's probably the fog, she walked farther than she thought and got lost." But Steven and Carlotta were both worried. Tom gave an excellent imitation of being half frantic.

"Call Carney if she comes. I'll keep in touch with him. She's got to be found." He clapped on his hat and started for the door.

Not found by you, Sarah thought, and leaped down on the grass and ran.

She had no way of knowing in which direction Tom was moving. Once again the immediate world was reduced to a few feet of space enclosed solidly in walls of gray vapor, a deeper gray now.

Then she thought of the stine house. She could telephone to the Inspector from there without having to explain why she wanted to get away at once to Carlota and Steven.

Figures Ike, Faubus Could Do More

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Price Daniel said yesterday he felt neither President Eisenhower nor Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus "exhausted every means at their command to avoid the present explosive situation" in Little Rock.

"Of course, here in Texas we would have sent a couple of Texas Rangers to handle the situation," Daniel said at a press conference.

The governor said it "was not a very democratic process for President Eisenhower to enforce court orders with bayonets."

16-Year-Old Has Hectic Experience

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two young boys, one of them semi-conscious from severe electrical burns, spent more than 10 harrowing minutes atop a slow-moving freight train last night as it wound 2½ miles through a long tunnel.

The grueling experience began in the Pennsylvania Railroad yards at Union Station, where a group of Negro and white youths were playing.

John T. Powell, 16-year-old Negro, climbed on a standing freight train and was severely shocked when he touched the high-voltage electric wires overhead.

Two companions ran several blocks to his home and returned with his mother. She went to climb up and get her son, who was lying unconscious on top of the train.

But Donald Maler, 16-year-old white youth, persuaded her not to try it, to wait until firemen and railroad workmen arrived.

About eight minutes passed while young Maler dissuaded the frantic mother from climbing on.

Young Powell, meanwhile, regained consciousness and rose to his knees on top of the freight car just as the train started up.

Seeing that the Negro boy—injured and dazed as he was—would be swept off the car when the train passed under a street bridge young Maler climbed on the moving train and held Powell down.

The freight moved westward out of the yards, through a low, winding 2½ mile tunnel and on another mile to Gwyn's Run before railroad officials were able to flag it down and shut off the electric current in the overhead wires.

Firemen removed the two boys to Lutheran Hospital, where Powell was reported in fair condition with third-and-fourth degree burns of the scalp and third-degree burns on the feet.
